| 1. During the undersigned's TDY at Headquarters earlier this summer, it was agreed with <input type="checkbox"/>, the AEROBYNAMIC case officer, that on the occasion of AECASSONARY/29's upcoming trip to Europe, while he was stopping in Paris, the undersigned and A/29 would get together to discuss Ukrainian developments and the Ukrainian element in UNCAIRD. Headquarters may recall that there was correspondence on this subject (see reference) almost two years ago. Paris' interest has been based on the fact that a part of the Soviet presence in UNCAIRD is Ukrainian, or at least calls the Ukraine home. <input type="checkbox"/> is aware of the nature and importance of the nationality question in the USSR and the Ukrainian question in particular. We wish not only to keep abreast of events in the Ukraine which may affect Soviet Ukrainians stationed abroad, but also to seek ways in which the Ukrainian theme might be worked into our operations involving Soviet Ukrainians, in UNCAIRD and elsewhere. 2. A-29 and the undersigned met for lunch on 27 August, having taken the necessary security measures. We went into some detail on current developments in the Ukraine. A-29 described the status of the writers and intellectuals; we discussed the Uniate Church and Cardinal Slipiy (his difficulty in maintaining a separate Ukrainian Catholic organization), the Russification of the Ukraine and its reversal among young people in the cities, and other allied subjects. A-29 described some of the recent literature published by him and other organizations and mentioned that some of it was on sale in Paris at Brentano's Book Store. 3. A-29 explained that A-1 was concentrating its efforts on contacts with Soviet Ukrainian travelers rather than the PCS presence abroad, since the former bring fresh news and manuscripts from the Ukraine and in general are more accessible than the Distribution:3 - C/SB3 - C/EUR |  |                                  |   |

| the PCSers for obvious reasons. A-29 has found travelers more cautious recently, though once they begin to talk, they have a lot to say. 4. A-29 mentioned nothing to the undersigned on the Soviet Ukrainian PCS target in France, though we did discuss the Soviet Ukrainian representative to UNCAIRD. A-29 considers him a typical KGBist but a real Ukrainian--not "a Russian in an embroidered shirt." He has no additional information on him. 5. <input type="checkbox"/> told A-29 that in his experience the Soviet Ukrainians in Paris are sensitive to the Ukrainian nationalist issue but try to dismiss it as out-of-date or unimportant, if not downright destructive. A-29 said that Soviet Ukrainian travelers are generally a good deal more frank on the subject. 6. We considered the possibilities of injecting a controlled Ukrainian agent into UNCAIRD. <input type="checkbox"/> explained the difficulty in fitting even a professionally well-qualified agent into a particular UNCAIRD opening at any time. We agreed that this approach would probably not work but that A-29 would be alert for anyone who himself was applying to UNCAIRD, with a view to possible operational collaboration after the potential agent had landed a job. We did not, of course, limit this group to WOLADYers. Quite the contrary, third nationals would be preferable. 7. A-29 said that he would discuss with <input type="checkbox"/> what new Ukrainian literary work in English translation might be sent to the <input type="checkbox"/> as case officer and agent briefing material. We would very much like to receive such material for use on appropriate occasions. <input type="checkbox"/> <input type="checkbox"/> |                                      |  |                        |
